Child Marriages.

The Hindu religion never sanctioned the class, which meets for one hour, with some y an American kinder-not let let them the steries, the morals. It is not readily see the applications of the marriage before attaining woman-hood. The wife is called in Sanskrit sahadharmini, which means a partner in spiritual life. It shows that marriage is a holy bond. God can not be worshiped and prayers will not be heard if a wife does not join her husband. For this reason there can be no divorce in India. The first duty of a husband, according to Manu, is to adore his wife; to give her everything she needs or desires and to make her happy. When women are happy the devas are pleased; but all virtue and goodness leuves the family where women are dishonored. Sir Monier Williams says: Wives are generally loved, and cruel treatment by brutal husbande is unknown. A woman's body is sacred, and must not be struck, even with a flower. For this reason there can be no capital punishment for women.
